- a. 10/11-12/17
- b. Two key points
 - i. Emphasis that students need to be treated as equals in committee meetings. That means sharing all information with students, and not just what makes the University look good.
 - ii. Data shows that students that go to normal level courses and have additional support do better than placing them in a Remedial Course. The system took students and focused on preventing them from being in classes that was above their skill level (If student was in that situation it would be easy to see), but it is time that the institution focused on not under-estimating CSU students.
