CSUnity ASI PARTICIPANT APPLICATION

History of CSUnity Student Leadership Conference

The CSUnity Conference was developed in 2011 after years of discussion among Associated Students and Student Union staff, who recognized that this summer training was a missing component of effectively preparing CSU student leaders entering their terms. Now in its fifth year, the CSUnity Student Leadership Conference is intended for all student leaders and staff associated with the CSU's Associated Students and Student Union organizations. Whether you are an executive officer, board member or appointed member the conference topics are designed to prepare you for an effective year of leadership at your respective campus. Workshop and super sessions will discuss leadership development strategies, communications and marketing, tools to ensure strong governance of a board of directors, and ideas about creating change through representing and advocating on behalf of your student bodies.

Overview of CSUnity

CSUnity brings CSU student leaders together to receive training, develop skills and network with peers. The conference is most applicable to Associated Students and Student Union executive officers and board members. The 2018 CSUnity Conference is being planned specifically for student leaders in the California State University system.

The conference will prepare student leaders for the legal and fiscal responsibilities that come with serving on a governing board. The conference will include sessions on leadership development, such as communication strategies, time management and organization, goal-setting and ethical decision-making. In addition to a full program of workshops and keynote speakers, there will be ample opportunities to network with peers from across the CSU's 23 campuses.
