Hi Isis,

Yes, we do ask that all the factories we work with comply with fair labor laws.

For the shirts ordered, the shirts themselves are manufactured by Hanes brand, who are certified by the Fair Labor Association.

They also have more information on their website.

The printing is done at a small local printing facility in Los Angeles. I regularly visit the facility myself and they follow local, California and federal labor laws.

For future projects, we do also offer items that are made in the USA, along with brands that are union made. Just let me know your specifications and I am happy to suggest options that best fit your needs and preferences.

Please let me know if you have any questions or need anything else.

Thanks,
Stefanie
